LEADERSHIP & EXPERTISE

Spanish Society is led by its founder and CEO, Georgina Palencia, linguist, educator, and cultural director with experience working with professionals, executives, and organizations across the United States, Latin America, and Spain. She is a graduate of the Goldman Sachs 10,000 Small Businesses program.

Her approach integrates academic rigor, public speaking training, and performance-based communication, bringing depth and precision to how language is learned and used in real contexts.

She is also the Founder and Artistic Director of Teatro Loft, a nonprofit dedicated to contemporary Latin American theater in Spanish.

WHERE MOST COMPANIES STRUGGLE

Most organizations are not starting from zero, but from incomplete communication ability.

- Teams understand Spanish but do not speak it confidently.
- Communication depends on translation.
- Cultural nuance is missing.

The difference is not in how much Spanish you've been exposed to, but in how effectively you can use it.

HOW WE WORK

Every engagement begins with:

1. Needs assessment.
2. Level evaluation.
3. Communication goals definition.

From there, we determine the most effective path:

- Structured Spanish Program (A1–C2), or
- Business-focused curriculum, or
- Fully customized program.

We align the program with your real communication needs using a prestigious publishing house.

CASE STUDY

From Understanding to Real Communication

A Houston-based company with a bilingual workforce faced a common challenge:

Managers understood some Spanish, but avoided using it.

Communication depended on a few bilingual employees, slowing operations and limiting relationships.

After an initial diagnostic, Spanish Society implemented:

- Business Spanish Express for team training.
- Small group sessions for sustained practice.
- Executive coaching for leadership.

What changed

Within the first 8-12 weeks:

Managers began initiating conversations in Spanish.
Daily instructions were communicated directly.
Dependence on internal translators decreased.
Team interaction became more fluid and natural.

One of the most visible shifts:

Supervisors who previously avoided speaking began greeting, instructing, and correcting in Spanish without hesitation.

Strategic result:

- Improved coordination.
- Stronger internal relationships.
- Increased confidence across teams.

It was the result of using Spanish in context, consistently. This was not the result of “learning Spanish.”

METHODOLOGY

We combine:

- Structured academic frameworks.
- Real communication practice.
- Cultural integration.
- Performance-based learning.

Language is developed as a functional professional skill.
